Sarah Archer, who helps every week with hand chimes, taught the children how to make a pinpoint viewer out of a cereal box, paper, and tin foil. We learned how to easily make a safe viewer for the next day's total solar eclipse.

Then the families heard the story of Jesus accompanying two sad disciples on Easter evening as they returned to Emmaus after the crucifixion. Although the disciples did not recognize who he was, Jesus made himself known to them when he broke bread with them. The children then retold the story in their own words using Magnatiles and Duplos.
